Duke University is comprised of several schools, including the Duke University School of Law, the Duke University School of Medicine, the Duke University School of Business, the Duke University School of Engineering, and the Duke University School of Arts and Sciences. The main campus is located in Durham, North Carolina, and covers approximately 1,000 acres. The campus is home to several landmark buildings, including the Duke University Chapel, the Duke University Student Union, and the Duke University Medical Center.

Duke University is known for its strong academic programs, including law, medicine, business, and engineering. The university also offers a wide range of extracurricular activities, including athletics, student organizations, and community service programs. The Duke University Blue Devils are a well-known collegiate athletic team, and the university has produced many successful athletes and sports teams.

In addition to its academic and athletic programs, Duke University is also known for its commitment to research and innovation. The university has several research centers and institutes, including the Duke University Center for Computational Science, the Duke University Center for Genome Sciences, and the Duke University Center for Biomedical Informatics.

The Duke University campus includes several buildings and facilities, including the Duke University Student Center, the Duke University Library, and the Duke University East Campus. The campus is also home to several outdoor areas, including the Duke University Gardens, the Duke University Arboretum, and the Duke University Botanical Garden.

The Duke University campus is a popular destination for visitors, who can explore the various buildings and facilities, participate in sports and athletics, and enjoy the many outdoor areas and activities available on campus.